NEWS WORTH SHARING.

Hendiae Sedeeq, 71, of London, was on a walk at about 4:30 p.m. Wednesday near Hyde Park Road and Riverside Drive when she was hit in the face by a plastic bottle filled with water, leaving a bruise.

'What happened?'

Assault. Family seeks answers, fears woman was targeted while walking in Oakridge

Hendiae Sedeeq is a walker.

She took daily walks in Syria after being told she had diabetes and needed the exercise. She kept walking when she moved to London five years ago. And she picked up her treks after recovering from heart surgery earlier this year.

But, for the time being, the 71-year-old is calling off her routine. Sedeeq no longer feels safe after someone threw a bottle filled with water out a car window, hitting her in the face Wednesday.

Seeking a reason

"Maybe because she's a Muslim — they know and they hit a Muslim."
Rawaa Ibrahim, daughter of the victim

"It was burning. My body was shaking," she said, trembling Thursday as she recounted what happened near Hyde Park Road and Riverside Drive.

Sedeeq will need to explain the bruise on her jaw to her son when he visits in a few days. Until then, daughter Rawaa Ibrahim is taking care of her.

Ibrahim believes her mother may have been targeted because of her ethnicity.

"My mother told me it (was) a very, very strong throw, and many people were walking. So why her?" she said.

Police are investigating the incident as an assault, and had no leads Thursday afternoon.

"We've got no indication that (Sedeeq) was a target, or that she was targeted for any specific reason," Const. Ken Steeves said.

A passing cyclist stopped, helping Sedeeq find ice and a place to rest. The family is now hoping the unknown cyclist and other potential witnesses will come forward.

Who to contact

Police and the family are asking potential witnesses to call 519-661-5670 or Crime Stoppers at 800-222-8477.

Unemployment rate not cut and dry: LEDC chief

It's a number many people know, and even more pay attention to. But, do you really understand the local unemployment rate?

Statistics Canada will release the latest data Friday — reflecting what was happening in the London area during May. If the recent trend continues the rate will hit double digits.

A lot goes into figuring the rate, and, officials are urging people to take that into account when the big unveil comes.

"Where you are located, how many people are unemployed, the total number of people employed and the number of people in your work force, any change in those numbers will have an impact on the unemployment rate," said Peter White, president and CEO of the London Economic Development Corp.

If the number of workers in the area grows but the number of people without jobs holds steady, the unemployment rate can still jump. MARK SPOWART/METRO

Police arrest five after cocaine found

Raids. Marijuana, firearm also seized

KEVIN HURREN
london@metronews.ca

Five people are facing charges after searches of four homes turned up weapons and drugs.

Nearly a kilogram of cocaine and 78 grams of marijuana were found during Wednesday's searches on Sandcherry, Barker and Sandford streets along with Wonderland Road North, police said.

The cocaine seizure comes days after police announced they had found a similar-sized stash in searches of properties tied to Solomon Woldegabriel, 38, of London. Woldegabriel, the subject of an eight-month investigation, has been described as a "high-level" drug trafficker.

Value

$95,700

The value of cocaine seized Wednesday after searches of four London homes.

The new arrests are "separate" and unrelated to that investigation, London police Const. Ken Steeves said.

Along with the drugs seized Wednesday, police found more than $10,000 in cash, a .40-calibre handgun and equipment used to shape cocaine into blocks.

Marko Maric, 28, Nathan Lacroix, 28, and Ethan Eckstein, 32, have been charged with several drug offences, police said.

Megan Turner, 21, is charged with possession for the purpose of trafficking. Sheila Hogdon, 35, is charged with possession of a substance.

Let the good times roll this festival season

Get outside. Summer's an opportunity for local musicians to hit the road and spread their name, says drummer Ted Peacock

There is a fifth season in the Forest City — and it unofficially starts this weekend.

Summer festivals are back, baby, with the Our Street Downtown Block Party and Fiesta London leading the way.

But for some, it won't be all fun and games. Local musicians who travel the festival circuit will be counting on park stages — and party lovers — to help make their names known.

London drummer Ted Peacock has played music festivals in several Canadian hot spots, but some of the best opportunities for musicians are right here in the Forest City, he says.

The Home County Festival, for instance, is "an amazing opportunity to engage with the audience," Peacock said. "It is very close and intimate because not only are you playing your main performance, you are also doing workshops, which is really great."

Playing on the road gives musicians opportunities to see how other communities promote and support music.

"Quebec has an amazing investment in their music culture," Peacock said. "I have played there, and it is incredible how the cities have invested into the festivals."

With years of touring the junket under his belt, there's still one festival that sticks out in Peacock's mind as the best.

It wasn't in Montreal, Toronto or London. Rather, it was the Harvest Jazz and Blues Festival in New Brunswick.

"It is the most welcoming and amazing experience I have ever had at a festival," Peacock said. "It started when they met us at the airport and gave me a Sabian cymbal.

"They had set up with local patrons who fed us home-cooked meals, put us up in a hotel. We had an amazing reception from the audience and there was this incredible after-party at the market. It was just a lot of fun."

This weekend

Party hearty

From valet bicycle parking to a chihuahua parade, this weekend's festivals have a bit of it all.

The fun starts rolling Saturday with the Our Street Downtown Block Party — an event centred on taking back the street from cars.

Dundas will be closed from Talbot to Wellington from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. so people can walk right down the middle of downtown's main drag, taking in a bazaar and watching as artists work on the fly, among other things.

The festival is organized by Our Street London, a group trying to inspire people to walk, cycle and take public transit to create a sustainable urban city.

Fiesta London will twirl its way onto the square outside Covent Garden Market at 11 a.m. Sunday.

The festival runs until 10 p.m. with enough food to fill a piñata and a plenty of dancing to work off the extra calories.

Tories seeking police probe into deleted gas-plant records

The Tories are vowing to ask for a theft investigation into the destruction of government documents by senior Liberal staff in former premier Dalton McGuinty's office

"My intention is to actually phone the (OPP) commissioner and report a crime," said PC energy critic Vic Fedeli.

Police must investigate the conclusions of Ontario's privacy commissioner, who found the chiefs of staff in McGuinty's office and the Ministry of Energy broke the law by deleting emails on cancelled gas plants in Oakville and Mississauga, added Fedeli.

"As in all scandals ... the lie becomes almost bigger than the original sin."

London West MPP Chris Bentley was sitting as energy minister at the time.

"The decision by Premier McGuinty's office to remove electronic records from government computers and put them onto USB sticks needs to be investigated by the OPP," Fedeli said Thursday. "These vital records are government and taxpayer property, and until they are returned they should be considered stolen."

The opposition accuses the Liberals of destroying emails to hide the true cost of cancelling the gas plants, which has grown to an estimated $585 million, well above the government's original claims of $230 million. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Recycling. Liberal draft legislation would embed eco fees in product prices

Ontario consumers would see eco-fees included in the price tag of products like TVs and computers under proposed new legislation.

In addition to the all-in pricing, the draft bill would get rid of industry-run stewardship organizations that were setting the eco fees.

Currently, producers and importers pay eco fees to those organizations to administer recycling programs, costs which are usually passed on to consumers.

The governing Liberals introduced the legislation Thursday, after promising to overhaul the system.

Stewardship Ontario came under fire in 2010 when, with little warning, eco fees were slapped on thousands of new household products.

The governing Liberals were forced to drop the fees on those products amid outrage from both consumers and businesses, but kept the fees on electronics.

An engineer had long known about severe rusting of steel beams at a mall in northern Ontario when he signed off on a report declaring the structure sound less than two months before it collapsed, a judicial inquiry heard Thursday.

French left-wing activist killed during fight with skinheads

Political violence. Four suspects with alleged ties to extreme-right movements arrested

A group of skinheads beat a French far-left activist to death in the heart of Paris' shopping district, officials said Thursday, in an attack that raised fears of increased far-right violence.

Political tensions are high in France after months of protests against legalizing gay marriage that sometimes ended with troublemakers from the extreme right clashing with police.

Interior Minister Manuel Valls said a fight broke out Wednesday evening between two groups of young people in a pedestrian street just steps away from the famous Printemps department store. The activist, Clement Meric, was initially hospitalized in grave condition, then died Thursday, said Agnes Thibault-Lecuivre, spokeswoman for the Paris prosecutor's office.

Four suspects, aged 20 to 37 and believed to have links to extreme right movements, were arrested, Thibault-Lecuivre said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Miss World pageant covers up

Indonesia. Pageant contestants will have to opt for more conservative sarongs instead of bikinis

Miss World has axed the famed bikinis from this year's pageant in Indonesia, replacing the skimpy swimsuits with conservative beach sarongs amid mounting protests from hard-line Muslim groups, organizers said Thursday.

All of the more than 130 contestants will be required to wear Bali's traditional long sarongs instead of the sexy bikinis that are historically part of the competition, said Adjie S. Soeratmadjie of the RCTI, the official broadcaster and local organizer.

Parts of the pageant will take place on the resort island of Bali and the final round will be held Sept. 28 near the capital, Jakarta. Indonesia is the world's most populous Muslim country.

"There will be no bikini in this year's Miss World pageant to respect our traditional customs and values," Soeratmadjie said, adding that the London-based Miss World Organization is on board with the decision.

"This is a sensitive issue in Indonesia. We have discussed it since last year and they have agreed," he said.

The chairwoman of the Miss World Organization, Julia Morley, confirmed that none of the 137 contestants would wear a bikini.

"Indonesia is designing for us a very beautiful one-piece beachwear, and I'm very happy with them," she told The Associated Press by phone from London, adding that the pageant will include a special beachwear fashion show.

"I don't think Indonesia is the only country that has that culture," Morley said. "But we like to work in the manner respectful to every country, and I cannot see why when you go to somebody's country you should not behave respectfully."

The pageant began in the 1950s, and the first winner was crowned in a two-piece bathing suit.

Soeratmadjie said the sarong would be made creatively and designed specifically for the event. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Health minister tables bill to tighten rules on injection sites

The federal government has introduced tough new rules for supervised drug-injection sites, in a move some see as an effort to deter such facilities.

The government says it's a response to a Supreme Court of Canada ruling that ordered the Conservatives to keep a Vancouver clinic open against their will.

But NDP health critic Libby Davies said the government is effectively blocking any chance of setting up a new clinic.

The new legislation would require advocates of new clinics to meet two dozen specific criteria before they can apply to open a new clinic. Among other things, they would have to canvass community opinion and gain the support of provincial and municipal authorities.

The health minister would then make the final decision.

As Health Minister Leona Aglukkaq tabled her bill on Thursday, she made it clear which way she will lean.

"Our government believes that a site involving the use of illicit substances should be strictly controlled to protect everyone in the community," she told reporters.

"Accordingly, we believe that the application process needs to be changed to create formal opportunities for local voices to be heard and their views considered before an exemption would be considered." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sex ed. Changes being sought for Ontario's sex education curriculum

The teacher consultant for a Windsor school board is part of a growing chorus — which includes the University of Toronto, Public Health Ontario and The Hospital for Sick Children — calling for Ontario to release its updated sexual education curriculum.

The existing curriculum has remained mostly unchanged since 1998, and a lot has happened since then, says Sharon Seslija, of Greater Essex County District School Board.

"Kids as young as five have access to online pornography, for example, and we need a curriculum that addresses those issues before kids have to deal with them on their own," Seslija says.

Former premier Dalton McGuinty had proposed new sex education curriculum, meant to begin in 2010. However, the changes were left out after being opposed by religious groups and other detractors.

The proposed curriculum included teaching Grade 7 students about contraception and sexually transmitted infections and giving Grade 1 students the correct terminology for genitalia.

"If we look at other provinces, they introduce that language in Kindergarten," Seslija said.

The good in games. Findings show video games have an upside

If you still think video games will rot your kid's brain, Dr. Kathy Sanford has something to tell you.

"Painting things with a simplistic, negative brush is not helpful at all," the University of Victoria professor said. "Video games aren't going away, so we need to think about more deep and complex issues rather than just saying don't play them," — and that's exactly what Sanford is doing.

For the past three years, she's observed children playing video games to see how it affects their development. What she's found may shock some parents.

"They're actually learning a lot," Sanford said, noting kids pick up problem-solving and leadership skills from games.

As well, video games that feature collaborative or team play also teach kids how to negotiate and cooperate with their peers. LUKE SIMCOE/METRO

It would take more than four consecutive days to view every item in what just might be the world's largest wine-label collection.

Toronto resident and former sommelier Alain Laliberte owns about 160,000 wine labels, carefully stored in 123 shoeboxes. He has contacted Guinness World Records because he is confident he has enough to break the current high of 16,349 labels.

Of course, he hasn't managed to taste the contents of all 160,000 bottles. But with an average of 5,000 wines sampled per year, he's not that far off.

At least 40 per cent of Nova Scotia's strawberry industry, a sector worth about $18 million annually, has been damaged by an insect-borne virus, provincial Agriculture Minister John MacDonell said Thursday. The virus is carried by aphids and has been detected in the Debert area, near Truro, as well as the Annapolis Valley. But MacDonell said he wasn't worried about the possibility of the virus spreading much further because of the relatively short distances aphids travel. The affected plants aren't harmful to eat but they are often stunted and can't be sold, and berries may disappear from the plants. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS FILE

Midnight munchies. McDonald's offers breakfast for night owls

McDonald's is taking a small step toward offering breakfast items outside of its usual breakfast hours — at least if you're a night owl.

Starting this month, the fast-food chain says participating 24-hour restaurants in select U.S. locations will offer an After Midnight menu that includes its Egg McMuffin, Big Mac and Chicken McNuggets.

Customers will be able to create Midnight Value Meals, with either fries or hash browns as their side items, McDonald's says.

A mockup of the menu provided by the company showed an Egg McMuffin paired with French fries, next to the heading, "Dinner or Breakfast? Yes."

The rollout of the menu, which is available from midnight to 4 a.m., builds on a Breakfast After Midnight menu the company has been testing. McDonald's notes that local franchisees may adapt their offerings based on local preferences.

1 Sexy specs. Google Glass users were briefly treated to some mobile porn before the Internet giant's moral police yanked it out from under them. The perfectly respectable app, entitled T*ts and Glass, allowed users to share unfiltered content, and they stopped it. Kudos to Google for taking a stand and saying, "Hey, you can watch porn on your desktops, laptops and smartphones all you want, just not while you're crossing the street, dammit!"

2 Calling occupants. NASA Prof. Joel Levine is looking for $650 million to finance an aerial regional-scale environmental survey. Basically, a robotic, rocket-powered airplane to fly around Mars searching for trace gases that prove there is life on the planet. We have no information on how much the Martians spent probing Earth for humans with trace gases.

3 Badass Biebs. Justin Bieber is smoking weed, getting inked, hanging with gangsta rappers, and wearing white undershirts with gold chains. He's taken to fast cars and has even added a lazy little ghetto-strut to his walk. I am just waiting for his first teardrop tattoo so I can actually start listening to his music.

4 Subcellular. A recent study revealed that even though Google's Android phones captured a majority of the U.S. smartphone market share, the average iPhone user spends more than 50 per cent more time actually using their device than Android users. The reason? Porn.

5 Forever young. Researchers in Australia performed a study of sun damage among 900 people. Some applied sunscreen on a daily basis, while others used it only when they felt exposed. After four years, those using sunscreen religiously had 24 per cent less skin aging than the others. They were also extremely pale, completely broke, and more prone to having objects slip from their greasy hands.

6 For the ladies. A Dutch company called Emotional Brain is performing clinical trials of a new drug, Lybrido. The female Viagra is said to treat hypoactive sexual desire disorder. HSDD is a lack of sexual desire affecting many women. If the research proves successful, scientists will immediately begin work on another pill that will make women care enough to take the first one.

7 Double dribble. Former NBA all-stars Jason Kidd and Grant Hill were drafted one after the other in 1994, shared Rookie of the Year honours in 1995, and at 40, were among the five oldest players in the league this year. This week, two days after Grant Hill retired, Jason Kidd announced he would do the same. Sources close to Hill say he is looking for a new home as far away from Kidd as possible.

8 This week. In 1969, Keith Richards and partner Anita Pallenberg were in a car accident near their home in Sussex. While the car was written off and Pallenberg suffered a broken collarbone, Richards escaped serious injury, proving once again that Keith cannot be killed.

9 Also this week. In 1997, Oasis guitarist Noel Gallagher played a five-song set at the Tibet Freedom Concert. He then walked off stage, got drunk and punched out a fan. I'm kidding. That was not the night he punched out a fan.

10 Happy anniversary. To my wife of several years, thanks for putting up with me.

@metropicks asked: Giving employees sick days is becoming obsolete. What's the best way to use your sick day?

@Astroboi8: If people use sick days as extra vacation days. Then those who are moral are penalized.

@FrenchmanCanada: Getting better, isn't that the point?

@jarmak77: It's best not to use a sick day since most places I worked discipline you for using them.

@hoodPALS: Visit tanning salon for deep tan, get new wardrobe, and visit the amusement park and post photos on Facebook.

@RaiderRoddy: when you are actually sick !!!

@mcpelto: watching Ferris Bueller's Day Off

@HfxHeathen: Oh, good. Take away my 3 unpaid sick days a year. Productivity soars when there's sneezing in the next cubicle.

@LegendaryAres: Sometimes, you just need a day off. What's wrong with making them use up a sick day to get it? Sounds fair to me.

Synopsis

This new buddy comedy pairs Owen Wilson and Vince Vaughn for the first time since 2005's Wedding Crashers. They are Nick and Billy, two wild and crazy guys whose sales jobs are made obsolete in the technological age. Unable to get a foothold in the new media field they crash Google's Mountain View, Calif. headquarters and become "noogles" in hopes of landing gigs as interns, despite having no experience with computers. "We're looking at some sort of mental Hunger Games against a bunch of genius kids for just a handful of jobs," says Nick.

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Searching for laughs

The Internship. Owen Wilson and Vince Vaughn fail to rekindle that Wedding Crashers magic in this poor man's version of Revenge of the Nerds

Richard: Mark, this is the funniest infomercial I've ever seen. As a comedy movie it doesn't rate that high, but as an advertisement for Google it's a knee slapper. I've seen product placement in movies before, but this is something else. By the time Rose Byrnes' character says, "I believe what we do here makes people's lives better," I was ready to worship at the Church of the Sacred Search Engine. We also learn that Google is ranked as the best place to work in America. That's all great, but I was hoping for more laughs with my infomercial. What did you think?

Mark: Ugh! The shameless corporate tie-in made me want to take a shower. And it opens up the door for less savoury companies to do the same thing: can Monsanto: The Movie be far behind? It's too bad, because the leads are great, and it's a great premise — but I didn't laugh once. It could have been a version of Animal House set at a business behemoth, but comes off as a bad Revenge of the Nerds. The idea would make a great reality series, but the movie flops and feels engineered from the first frame onwards.

RC: I'm not so sure I thought the leads were great. There are some laughs in The Internship. Unfortunately, very few of them are generated by Vaughn and Wilson. The chemistry that made Wedding Crashers such a big hit eight years ago is still in place, but the material isn't. They still banter a blue streak but it feels tired and old, like many of the jokes. The two luddites at a tech mecca should have been workable, but it often feels like laughing at grandpa because he can't figure out how to work the remote.

MB: I meant the leads are great, but not in this movie! Everything seems laboured, underscored, and over directed. These two guys may preach the value of eccentricity in the workplace, but the script defies their goal at every turn. It's a very conventional movie that's even a little smarmy at times. The old Vince Vaughn would have made fun of the sentimentality that crowds any good moments out of the picture. And Wilson's role is just too vaporous to register.

RC: Perhaps next time the screenwriters can Google some better jokes.

MB: I say Yahoo! to that.

Thriller

The Purge

Director. James DeMonaco

Stars. Ethan Hawke, Lena Headey

To call The Purge cooked-up is an injustice to baked goods. A dystopian futuristic thriller about a family enduring an annual 12-hour government-backed event whereby crimes of any sort are legal (somehow this curbs violence the other 364 days of the calendar?) is as contrived and callous as cinema gets. If the filmmaker's aim was to create a moral allegory akin to A Clockwork Orange, he didn't even come within an eyelash.
STEVE GOW

Drama

Mud

Director. Jeff Nichols

Stars. Matthew McConaughey, Reese Witherspoon

This slow moving Mississippi river-set movie features infidelity, murder and theft, but at its heart it isn't really about any of those things. Not really. Instead it's a story about the things we do for love. When two 14-year-old boys discover a mysterious stranger named Mud (Matthew McConaughey) living on a remote island, they get drawn into a possibly illegal scheme to reunite the loner with his true love Juniper (Reese Witherspoon). Methodical and moody, the film takes its time telling the story, but the performances are stellar and quietly effective.
RICHARD CROUSE

Documentary

The Manor

Director. Shawney Cohen

Filmmaker Shawney Cohen's family legacy is explored in this fascinating doc, which focuses on lives left to squirm in limbo. Cohen was raised in his dad's glossy Ontario strip joint (The Manor of the title), literally reared on rears, and now, 30 years later, he examines the effect of the business on his parents and himself. On the surface it feels like a reality show pilot but the subject matter and larger than life, yet painfully human, characters are compelling.
CHRIS ALEXANDER

Drama

At Any Price

Director. Rahim Bahrani

Stars. Dennis Quaid, Zac Efron

As the title suggests, this is a movie about the price of winning at any cost. Dennis Quaid is a second-generation farmer and seed salesman who dreams of his son Dean (Zac Efron) taking over the business. Dean's head is elsewhere, but when the family business is threatened they reluctantly pull together despite their personal differences and a dark secret. At just an hour and 45 minutes the film feels long, as though the core idea — a powerful tale of fathers and sons and the pressure to succeed — is stretched to fill the time, rather than serving the story. RICHARD CROUSE

It's the end of the world as (Seth and Evan) know it ...

This is the End.
Superbad writers talk the apocalypse, comedy and condoms

LIZ BROWN
liz.brown@metronews.ca

The kings of the buddy comedy are back with a film of apocalyptic proportions. Seth Rogen and Evan Goldberg have been friends since childhood and writing partners since high school, where they first penned Superbad.

Their new collaboration, This is the End, features an ensemble cast of some of their favourite past co-conspirators. Rogen, Jay Baruchel, James Franco, Jonah Hill, Danny McBride and Craig Robinson (all playing themselves) hunker down in Franco's house during the end of the world. A veritable list of Hollywood's who's who round out the cast with bit parts: Michael Cera, Rihanna, Channing Tatum, Paul Rudd, Jason Segel and more have a role to play in the rapture.

Recently Metro caught up with the Vancouver-bred pals in Toronto over (fittingly) a bottle of Molson Canadian.

This idea was spawned from a short you wrote in 2007 called Jay & Seth vs. The Apocalypse. How did it turn into a full-length movie?
Seth: It took us a really long time to think of a way to expand it, honestly. We just couldn't think of where it would go, so it really took us four years of just kicking around the idea to really even get what type of full length movie it could be.

Evan: And then we had the people-play-themselves idea separate, and until we combined them, it didn't seem like the apocalypse thing was a full idea to us.

Seth: And then around three and a half years ago, we realized we could combine them.

There's a lot of self-deprecation in the movie. Was it hard to get the actors to poke fun at themselves?
Evan: The studios were kind of frightened by the concept of actors playing themselves.

Seth: The actors were really into it. I don't think anyone said no based on content. We were going out to these actors to see if they would play themselves so they were overwhelmingly psyched about it, so it was nice to see that some people thought it was a good idea.

It's the end of the world, you can only have three survival items. What are they?
Evan: Three of these four: water, food, guns, condoms.

Seth: The thing about guns is they can help you acquire any other items you may need...

Evan: But you don't want venereal disease.

Seth: With a gun, you can get condoms.

Seth Rogen talks about the end of the world in Toronto last month. LIZ BEDDALL/METRO

Evan: True.
Wouldn't condoms depend on who you were with?
Evan: Condoms are just always a good idea.

Seth: You can fill them with water and play with them.

Tribute bands have their own subculture. Below that, though, are all-female bands paying tribute to all-male bands. Start with this and move on to Vag Halen and AC/DShe.

Billie Jean Get Lucky/Michael Jackson vs. Daft Punk

This mash-up by Israeli DJ Noyaloosha works astonishingly well. Can we just go ahead and declare Get Lucky the song of the summer already?

Green explores Alexis breakup on new album

Interview. Former Alexisonfire frontman Dallas Green talks about his depression after leaving band he helped form

Two years ago, Little Hell granted City and Colour's Dallas Green his greatest success yet — platinum sales, his first chart-topping album and eventually, a Juno Award for songwriter of the year. So naturally, as he toured his most popular record yet, he was miserable.

That Green was blue had nothing to do with Little Hell, which he liked, but instead a heavy secret he'd been toting: the 32-year-old had already decided to depart the beloved post-hardcore band he'd helped to found more than a decade earlier, Alexisonfire, but news wouldn't reach the public until months later.

Dallas Green.
CHRIS YOUNG/THE CANADIAN PRESS

"Making Little Hell, I knew I had left the band," he recalled during a recent interview at an east Toronto bar. "I was lying to all the public, right? ... And that really (messed) me up."

It took making The Hurry and the Harm — out Tuesday — to help heal Green. As he was wrapping up the Little Hell tour, he "rekindled his relationship" with the rest of Alexisonfire and they announced plans for a farewell jaunt.

He decided to work quickly, wanting to figure out new songs before re-immersing himself in the Alexis headspace before their bittersweet victory lap. In Nashville and Toronto, he put together The Hurry and the Harm and had a "wonderful experience." After completing the Alexis tour, he was suddenly in a far more positive place than he had been in a long time.

"For the first time in eight or nine years, I didn't have anything to do," he said. "I had the record done ... and I finished and closed the book on the Alexis chapter. The first couple weeks of January are the first two weeks I've ever relaxed, like literally relaxed, in eight or nine years. And it was a really big moment. It was like a proverbial weight off my shoulders."

CTV adds Marvel's Agents of S.H.I.E.L.D. in with fall TV lineup

Network news. The Joss Whedon-created series will anchor a new Tuesday lineup

Buzzy shows starring Toni Collette, Josh Holloway, Malin Akerman and Bethenny Frankel are joining a revamped CTV lineup, but the network is touting a relative scarcity of new series as testament to a consistent, stable schedule.

The market leader notes it's picked up only four new dramas, two new comedies and one new unscripted series for prime time this fall.

They include the Collette thriller Hostages, also featuring Dylan McDermott and Tate Donovan; Marvel's Agents of S.H.I.E.L.D., created by Joss Whedon; the paranormal drama The Tomorrow People and the police drama Played.

The Whedon show will anchor a whole new lineup Tuesday, to be followed by the '80s-set family comedy The Goldbergs and the new sitcom Trophy Wife, starring Bradley Whitford and Akerman. The night is capped by Person of Interest, which jumps to CTV after previously airing on City.

Marvel's Agents of S.H.I.E.L.D. HANDOUT

Meanwhile, budding chefs are the stars of Junior Masterchef, a spin-off of the culinary competition series that will showcase talented kids between the ages of eight and 13 in food challenges and cook-offs.

More is on the way for midseason, with additions including Holloway's high-tech spy show Intelligence, the mystical drama Believe from Lost creator J.J. Abrams and Masterchef Canada, a Canadian version of the Gordon Ramsay hit.

Mid-season comedies include Kirstie Alley in her self-titled comedy, Kirstie, the serialized sitcom Mixology, Dave Foley's new multi-cam comedy Spun Out, and the '90s-set family comedy Surviving Jack, with former Law & Order: Special Victims Unit star Christopher Meloni.

"Year-after-year, CTV offers programming consistency and durability not found anywhere else," Phil King, president of CTV programming and sports, said Thursday in a statement.

Executives were to introduce the new lineup with all-day promotional events Thursday featuring Frankel, Donovan and Delroy Lindo from Believe.

Daytime this fall will see the addition of the homegrown talk show The Social and the official arrival of Frankel's talk show Bethenny, which previewed with a short run last year.

And Late Night with Jimmy Fallon joins CTV in the fall, with Seth Meyers in the chair this winter after Fallon leaves to take over The Tonight Show from Jay Leno. It will follow The Daily Show and lead into Conan.

Meanwhile, CTV is moving Dancing With The Stars, Tuesday's edition of The Voice, The X Factor, American Idol and Undercover Boss over to CTV Two this fall.

CTV also announced that its entire new lineup will be available on CTV GO, an on-demand platform allowing viewers to access a live stream of the channel as well as premium on-demand programming. It debuts this fall. THE CANADIAN PRESS

'I would watch it all the time,' Snooki says of a Bynes reality show

Former Jersey Shore star Nicole "Snooki" Polizzi thinks Amanda Bynes' antics would best be showcased on a reality show.

"I just think she's entertaining. And I think she needs a reality show because I would watch it all the time," Snooki tells E! News. "If she needed help, I would wish that she would get it, obviously, but she's entertaining. She's my guilty pleasure on Twitter."

Ethan Hawke gushes over Cage's acting abilities

Ethan Hawke admits he's more than a little "obsessed" with fellow actor Nicolas Cage. "He's the only actor since Marlon Brando that's actually done anything new with the art of acting," he said during a Q&A session on Reddit. "He's successfully taken us away from an obsession with naturalism into a kind of presentation style of acting that I imagine was popular with the old troubadours. If I could erase his bottom half bad movies and only keep his top half movies, he would blow everyone out of the water." No word, though, on whether Hawke is going to let Cage influence his own acting style.

Tatum worries about Bieber's development

Despite having a newborn daughter at home to concern himself with, Channing Tatum admits he's more worried about another young person: Justin Bieber. "I do believe that whatever age you become famous, you end up staying that age," Tatum tells Vanity Fair. "I worry about Bieber, man. That kid's wildly talented. I hope he doesn't fall down into the usual ways of young kids because it's so hard for someone to be responsible when they're not asked to be."

Planning a wedding is no piece of cake, although you do get one in the end. But the road to the big day can be bumpy, especially when it comes to choosing wine to be served for that all important toast to the bride.

Try to focus on wines that will charm everyone from your know-it-all boss to your new mother-in-law. Worry less about what you prefer and more about what the majority of your guests will enjoy.

Then there's the cost. Here is where size matters. There's a savings component when you trade up, so bigger is always better.

The selection of 1.5 litre bottles varies wildly across the country. So does their flavour profiles, with many "Canadian" versions made from a blend of imported and domestic juice.

Chile offers some of the best value when it comes to larger bottles, with Concha y Toro's 2011 Frontera Cabernet Sauvignon Merlot (1,500 ml, $13.95 to $19.99) offering bright, red berry fruit and Frontera Sauvignon Blanc (1,500 ml, $13.95 to $19.99) showing off gooseberry and citrus expression.

Truth be told, they're what I served at my nuptials.

A great way to make your own healthier pizzas is to use thin flour tortillas or pita bread rather than the thick pizza dough that has more calories than nutrients!

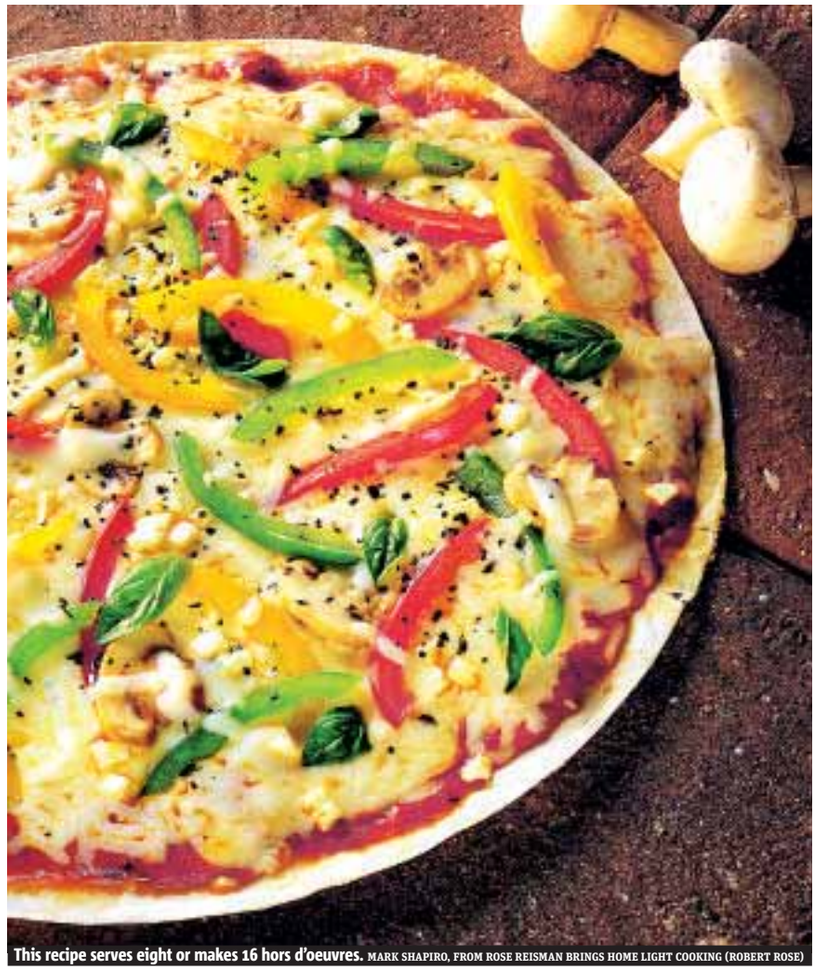
Use whatever vegetables and cheese you like.

1. Preheat the oven to 400 F. Place pita bread or tortillas on pizza metal or ceramic dish.

2. Divide the tomato sauce among the breads, ensuring to spread evenly.

Ingredients

- 4 flour small tortillas or pita breads (preferably whole wheat)
- 3/4 cup tomato pasta sauce
- 8 small mushrooms, thinly sliced
- 1/4 cup diced sweet red or green pepper
- 1 tbsp chopped fresh basil
- 1/2 tsp dried oregano
- 1 cup shredded mozzarella cheese
- 1/4 cup chopped feta cheese (optional)



This recipe serves eight or makes 16 hors d'oeuvres. MARK SHAPIRO, FROM ROSE REISMAN BRINGS HOME LIGHT COOKING (ROBERT ROSE)

3. Top with mushrooms, red pepper, basil and oregano. Sprinkle with cheeses.

4. Bake the pizza for 12 minutes or until it is crisp and the cheese is melted.

Tasty wrappers: Can we eat our way to a cleaner future?

Edible packaging. Across the world various forms of this concept are available and the outcome, one feels, can only be good

THERESA ALBERT
DHN, RNCP
myfriendinfood.com

Who can forget the racket that a noisy biodegradable Sunchip bag made? Kudos to any manufacturer who cares enough to take an ecological step in the right direction.

Reducing waste and recycling is on the radar of every responsible eater and food manufacturer, no doubt, but the system just isn't perfect yet. What would be ideal is a zero waste, edible package. But will that ever be a reality?

Packaging expert Loong-Tak Lim, an associate professor at the department of food science at the University of Guelph, says that we already have edible packaging, we just don't know it. Sausage casing, for instance, used to be made from the intestine of animals but now it is man made. His group has the "objective to utilize soy protein and waste from soy plants to produce edible films and coatings. We extracted cellulose microfibrils from the cellulosic waste from soy and use them as a filler to strengthen soy protein and alginate films. The idea is to use them as an edible packaging, for example as a primary packaging in sausage."

Seaweed itself, in the form of Nori, is also an edible wrapper of sorts. The original, most likely. The sugar coating and carnuba wax on M and M's are intended to have the same properties of containing a volatile substance with a stronger one. But that's kinda cheating, right? They aren't edible packaging in the sense that we think of — a vessel that carries food from serving to ingestion.

Eat EVERYTHING on your plate

Look to Taiwan for the most hopeful and inspiring idea. Chen Liang-erh, an amateur inventor, created edible bowls from oats. They aren't meant to hold much for long, but work well for a street food meal.

It's coming, Lim says. The hurdle is that edible products won't have the robust barrier properties needed to be shelf stable for long periods or throughout travel. They will necessarily have to be quickly used and consumed. They won't be able to hold the marketing and printing dyes like current packages can. Further, the manufacturer needs to meet strict applications of food grade materials and storage to prevent mold and bacteria.

Look to Taiwan for the most hopeful and inspiring idea. Chen Liang-erh, an amateur inventor, created edible bowls from oats. They aren't meant to hold much for long but work well for a street food meal of noodles and then a little crispy cracker after-snack instead of trash. In Japan Nobuhiko Arikawa of Rice-Design has created beautiful restaurant quality edible tableware from traditional hard tack cracker dough. Both inspired ideas with legs.

We may see more of these kinds of edible packaging fairly quickly as it is already common to find cornstarch utensils instead of plastic. The biodegradable packages are quickly improving, but the futuristic image of a zero trash food world isn't likely to come soon. Not while labelling and marketing has such a hold over our store shelves anyway.

DOG DAYS OF SUMMER

FUN ACTIVITIES FOR YOU AND YOUR PET

GEM PHOTOGRAPHY/VEER

Discover the joy of being active with your canine companion. Try some of these fun activities:

1 Go for a walk. Sounds basic, but many pet owners don't make it a daily practice. "Behaviour problems and obesity — the No. 1 medical problem for dogs — can arise from inadequate exercise," says Dr. Deji Odetoyinbo, a veterinarian with a busy urban practice in Toronto and 12 years experience in emergency medicine.

2 Play fetch. Whether you use balls, squeak toys or some other retrievable object, many dogs love fetching. "Dogs are social animals and retrieving something is an interaction that's mentally gratifying and intensely rewarding."

3 Go for a swim. Dogs generally like water, but swimming comes with a few caveats. "Not every breed should be allowed in water — bulldogs in particular," Odetoyinbo says. "Make sure the current is safe. And remember that floating algae can be deadly, so if the water has a blue-green film, keep your dog out."

4 Go for obedience training. This is especially important for younger dogs, but even old dogs can learn new tricks. "It's also a good way to solidify the bond between pet and owner."

5 Take your dog visiting. A well-behaved dog can do wonders for seniors and those with developmental disabilities. "Talk to your vet first to ensure your dog has the right temperament and is free of communicable health problems, since some people you encounter may be immune-compromised," Odetoyinbo says.

6 Go on vacation. "Just make sure to take along first aid items, medications and food (in case you can't get your regular brand where you are going). Give your dog plenty of bathroom breaks, water and cool air while driving. Ensure immunizations are up to date and check that your destination is pet friendly."

STRETCHING YOUR LEGS WITH YOUR FOUR-LEGGED FRIEND

To keep walks happy, comfortable and safe, here is a quick list of things to consider when you are out and about with your four-legged friend this summer, compiled with the help of Dr. Deji Odetoyinbo, a Toronto veterinarian with 12 years experience in emergency medicine.

Plan your route. It's easy to head out, then find that you have gone too far and your pet is struggling. "Especially short-faced breeds like pugs and bulldogs can suffer severe respiratory distress if they're exercised on hot days," Odetoyinbo says.

Stay on the grass. Concrete or paved surfaces can cause burned foot pads if you are walking on a hot day. "Staying on a path or grassy surface will keep paws cooler and act as better cushioning for a dog's joints."

Go early or late. "Many dogs keep going until they drop, so it's important to ensure they don't get overheated. Walk early or late in the day when it's cooler."

Take a leash. "Even if you're headed to an off-leash zone, your pet should be leashed en route." Not all dogs are well-behaved in the dog park, so it's best to be able to leash your pet if it or other dogs it is playing with are acting up.

Carry enough poop bags. One dog, one bag, right? Wrong! You may need extras sincesome dogs go multiple times — or someone else in the park might be stuck. "Three bags is a good number," Odetoyinbo says.

Don't forget water. Most dogs aren't trained to drink out of a bottle. "There are great collapsible containers that double as a dispenser that are handy and easy to carry." Check your local pet store.

NHL playoffs. With Boston ahead 11-2 in goals over the series, Pittsburgh needs to fill the net to avoid sweep

The Penguins are improving at putting more shots on net. They just need to put more into the net.

And they're running out of time.

Pittsburgh forced Boston goalie Tuukka Rask to make 53 saves, but the Bruins won 2-1 in double overtime on Wednesday night for a 3-0 lead in the Eastern Conference final.

The Penguins must keep firing pucks at Rask, forward Pascal Dupuis said Thursday, and "with the firepower that we have on our team, eventually they will go in."

If "eventually" doesn't come Friday night, their season will be over in stunning fashion. The team of Sidney Crosby, Evgeni Malkin and other top offensive threats will have been swept in the best-of-seven series.

It would be a shocking end to a season in which the Penguins led the NHL in scoring, and averaged 4.27 goals per game in their first two playoff series, but have been outscored 11-2 in the three losses to the Bruins.

Only three teams have overcome 3-0 playoff deficits. The Penguins know the odds are stacked heavily against them but are trying to ignore that.

"I think if you're betting right now, you're not betting on the Penguins down 3-0," said forward Brandon Sutter, who has one of their two goals. "But we're not going to quit. The percentages are, obviously, against us, but we've got a good team."

The top-seeded Penguins were dominated by the fourth-seeded Bruins in the first two games, losing 3-0 and 6-1. But in Game 3, they outplayed Boston for much of regulation.

"We need to be the team who we believe we are and go back to what's made us successful," forward Matt Cooke said.

"Obviously, the result wasn't there, but the effort and determination and style of play was more like who we are."

The Bruins won when Patrice Bergeron, covered closely by defenceman Brooks Orpik, redirected Brad Marchand's pass behind goalie Tomas Vokoun at 15:19 of the second overtime.

An inch or two either way, and the pass might have missed Bergeron's stick or his shot could have gone wide of the net.

"He drove the net. He outbattled the guy," said Bruins centre David Krejci, the leading scorer in the playoffs. "It looked pretty simple, but it's tough when you go to the net to keep your stick on the ice and he managed to do that and got a big goal."

The last team to lose a series after going up 3-0 was the Bruins in the Eastern Conference semifinals against the Philadelphia Flyers in 2010.

Serena eyeing return to French Open throne

Done with a dominating performance in the French Open semifinals, Serena Williams climbed the stairs leading from the locker-room to the players' lounge, looking to give her mother a hug.

Smiling widely all the while, Williams greeted visitors, posed for photos and signed autographs on her way.

It's been more than a decade since she was so happy — and played so well — this deep in the tournament at Roland Garros.

Coming as close to perfect as seems possible, Williams absolutely overwhelmed last year's runner-up, fifth-seeded Sara Errani of Italy, 6-0, 6-1 in a mere 46 minutes Thursday to reach the final for the first time since winning her lone French Open championship in 2002.

"It doesn't seem like that long ago," Williams said, "even though it was."

To collect her 16th Grand Slam title Saturday, Williams will need to beat defending champion Maria Sharapova, who put aside 11 double-faults and got past third-seeded Victoria Azarenka 6-1, 2-6, 6-4 in a much more competitive semifinal.

The final features the top two women in the rankings and seedings, No. 1 Williams and No. 2 Sharapova. They are two of three active women with more than two major championships; Sharapova completed a career Grand Slam in Paris last year with No. 4. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Horoscopes

♈ Aries
March 21 - April 20
Try not to let your anxieties get the better of you. As Neptune turns retrograde in the most sensitive area of your chart today, you may see problems where none exist. Act as if life is wonderful — and it will be.

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
Today's events will encourage you to believe that all things are possible. But they could also tempt you to take foolish risks, so think before you act. If you make a mistake, fix it.

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
Keep things simple today. Also, tread carefully when dealing with employers and other important people. They may see you as a threat and try to clip your wings.

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
The planets warn you should watch what you say today, especially if you are one of those Cancerians who tend to speak before fully engaging your brain. You are entitled to your opinion but others are just as entitled to disagree.

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
You will act on impulse quite a bit over the next 24 hours. Just be careful you don't say anything that could have a negative financial impact.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
Your emotions may be raging but you are determined not to let anyone know about it. That's probably a good move, because if your rivals realize how deep your feelings are, they may exploit them.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
Don't let your responsibilities weigh you down. It does not matter how much work you have to do or how far behind you are in your schedule, you must remain cheerful.

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
Others may give in to despair today but no way are you going to let it affect you. In fact, the more those around you indulge in feelings of doom and gloom, the more you will laugh at them.

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
Don't feel guilty about what happens to others. You are not responsible for the world and its woes and those who say you are should be laughed at loud and long.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
Neptune's apparent change of direction in the travel area of your chart will leave you a bit confused about what you should be doing and where you should be going. The good news is there's no need to rush.

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
You may think you know what is going on but the planets warn you are missing an important piece of the puzzle and it could cost you money. Whatever else you do today, don't take chances.

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
Neptune, your ruler, begins one of its retrograde phases today. Don't be surprised if important issues seem to move in the opposite direction of where you want them to.
